

Kitesurf Planet

There are some sports, more than others, in which a strong bond exists between the athlete and its surrounding nature: Kitesurf is one of them. Kites have always been synonymous with nature and the surrounding environment; requiring working with the wind if one wants to harness its power. Being a kitesurfer requires also having a understanding of the sea, so the athlete can ride the waves and capture the wind. This photographic experience will attempt similarly to capture the magic and charm of this sport; give an appreciation of the style; share an admiration of the maneuvers and look forward to its development. It conveys the passion that drives these athletes and the raw beauty and freedom, aggression and harmony with nature, which are all necessary to succeed on the waves and in the wind. This is the first up-close and intimate look at this extreme sport. Italian, English and Spanish text
